

Hi, I am a flight attendant for American Airlines. I am totally against the use of cell phones in flight. I will give you an example. About 3 years ago I was working a flight and we lost radar communication. The captain asked us to turn electronic devices off one by one and he would call back if it worked. The first person that I went to had their cell phone on, when she turned it off, we got our radar back. You may not have hard evidence about cell phones in flight but I do. People are sometimes rude and they talk loud. Some passengers want to sleep on a flight they can not do that if the person sitting next to them is talking on their cell phone for the entire cabin to hear. If there is an emergency well we need every passengers attention, not only half the cabin. I am begging you not to pass this. Think about the crew and the welfare to all passengers.
